Prepositioning of Resources and Personnel by Flood Operation Center (FOC), Department of Water Resources (DWR) (Continued)

- A weather briefing is scheduled for 12/06/18 at 1000 hours.
- River forecasts will be issued once per day through the weekend. Minor to moderate rises are forecast on the main stem rivers, but all points are expected to remain below monitor stage.
- Flood Operations Branch (FOB) staff are assisting DWR's Security and Emergency Management Program in fulfilling multiple Cal OES mission tasks for assistance with burn scar areas:
  - Staff:
    - Up to eight flood fight specialists (FFS) will continue to work in the Camp Fire burn scar area through 12/08/18 to assist with best management practices to help control erosion. Weather and working conditions will be evaluated daily and work may be suspended for safety concerns. It will be determined at a later date whether the FFS will be required to work after 12/08/18.
    - Two safety engineers were deployed on 11/30/18.
    - Up to four FOB staff will represent DWR during day and night shifts at the State Operations Center through Tuesday, 12/04/18.
- FOB staff will continue to monitor and assist as needed.
- Updates will be provided if necessary.
- Precipitation can be monitored at the following website: http://cdec.water.ca.gov/california\_burn\_areas.html.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

- Mountain snow showers will continue through the early evening with snow levels down to 4000 feet with up to three inches of additional snow is possible.
- Significant low level moisture increase over the last week coupled with light winds will lead to patchy fog late tonight into Sunday morning and again late Sunday night.
- Clearing skies Sunday and Monday will result in cold low temperatures.
- Next chance of precipitation is Monday night through much of the week.
- Initial forecast would have snow level starting around 4000 and rising to 5000 feet.
- Dry conditions are expected to return by Friday.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

- A weak storm system will bring a chance of rain and light snow in some mountain areas late tonight, mainly near the Grapevine.
- Gusty winds have continued today in the mountains, and are expected to pick up again tonight into Sunday.
- Strong winds, large seas and steep waves are forecast for coastal waters through Sunday morning.
- Below normal temperatures are expected through Monday.
- A stronger storm system could move into the region by the middle of next week bringing a chance of rain and snow.
- The timing and brunt of rain and mountain snow is expected to occur Wednesday through Thursday.
